ECONOMICS CLUB HEARD GOOD PAPER

Development of Water Power in Canada

ALEXANDER SPOKE

St. Lawrence Deeper Waterways Project Discussed

Members of the Economics Club were given a treat last night when E. R. Alexander read a paper on "The Development of Water Power in Canada." The meeting took place in the Smoking Room of the Arts building. Prominent among those present was Dr. Leacock, whose remarks, both humorous and serious, contributed greatly to the success of the evening. Alexander's paper was of the first order, showing a clear grasp of the subject.

C. T. Ballantyne, the president of the club, called the meeting to order at 8:15 p. m. and the secretary, C. W. Webster, read the minutes of the last meeting. The president then introduced Alexander.

The speaker first remarked that the paper he was about to read was intended solely for an Economics Club and hence he did not wish it to be judged from an engineering point of view. The remarkable growth of the derivation of electric power from water power was the first subject to occupy Alexander's attention. A quotation from Gide's Principles of Political Economy of 1903 showed how little electric power was considered twenty years ago.

"In all times," says Gide, "and especially since the abolition of slavery has made it impossible to employ the strength of his fellows, man has endeavored to supplement his strength by using the motive forces provided by nature. There are not very many of them, and they have often been over-estimated. There are really only four or five which man has been able to utilize in production: the muscular energy of animals, the propelling power of wind and water, the expansive power of vapours (especially of steam) and recently though thus far in a small measure, electricity."

Electricity, said the speaker, is not really a separate motive force. It is

BRILLIANT EVENT OF JUNIOR YEAR

Time-Honored "Prom" Takes Place Tonight

The Junior Prom, one of the major events of the college year, takes place tonight. The Junior committee have used all their ingenuity and the stage is set for what to all Juniors is one of the memorable evenings of their college life.

The decorations, while they may be described, must be seen to be appreciated. The prevailing color scheme in the ball room is blue and gold and the subdued and harmonious coloring should appeal to the most fastidious. The lounge room is also tastefully decorated in the same scheme. The stair case and pillars are draped with the flags of various nations. No longer will the dance-marker be the old red and white clock, but instead a novel and startling innovation, devised by an inventive Junior. And the moon, how different it is from the moon one generally sees. It is larger, many times larger than an ordinary moon, and it is veiled by soft white clouds in a blue and gold sky.

The preparations have been made for a capacity crowd, in fact all tickets are sold. The University Dance Orchestra of six pieces, especially for Friday night, will provide music such as never before was heard in these halls. The programmes are beautiful works of art and as such will undoubtedly be cherished as souvenirs of an event of the greatest importance. The Union Cafeteria also has surpassed itself in preparing a bill of fare that cannot but appeal to all. Undoubtedly the Junior Prom tonight promises to take precedence over all previous events of the kind.

MR. GOODWIN ADDRESSED COMMERCIALS

Spoke on "The Principles of Business"

TIMELY TOPIC

Comm. Soc. Favors Separation from Arts Undergrad

"The Principles of Business" was the subject of which Mr. W. H. Goodwin, of Goodwin's Limited, spoke to the Commercial Society in the Union last evening. Mr. Goodwin began his address by saying that profit was not the only object in business. Service was one far greater, which all real business men should consider before that of profit. Businesses are built up by service. The organization of faculties of Commerce, he thought, was a great step in the right direction. Business men would be placed on a par with those men of the liberal arts and professions. A man in business has as great a part to play in this world as the doctor, lawyer, or scientist.

Mr. Goodwin then proceeded to speak of the principles of business, and made the remark that principles never conflict. In business it is necessary to have a single objective. When there is more than one goal there is confusion, and the principle of organization is to choose your objective and follow it. "Make your aim an unselfish one," he said. "Study the broader outlooks of business while you are in college, and leave the details until later. Do not learn intricate rules, because these will often be found impractical in every day business life." With these last few remarks Mr. Goodwin concluded his speech to the Society.

Before the main talk of the evening, the necessary business was brought up. After some discussion it was unanimously decided that the Commercial Society go on record as favoring a complete separation from the Arts Undergrad, provided they receive

LAST OPPORTUNITY FOR JUNIOR PHOTOS

There are still a large number of Juniors who have not had their pictures taken. It is very urgent that they should do so at once as it will greatly aid the board in editing the Annual at an early date. Notman's have kindly consented to keep their Studio on Union avenue open from 8 to 10 p. m. this evening. It is particularly desired that Juniors take advantage of this opportunity as this will be the last evening that the Studio will be open.

SERVICE IS THEME OF SIR ROBERT

Ex-Chancellor of McGill Spoke at R.V.C.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Therein Lies True Path to World Peace Attainment

"I would commend to you the idea of service as one of the greatest things in life," was the message of the Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Laird Borden, P.C., G.C.M.G., K.C., LD., ex-Prime Minister of Canada, and ex-Chancellor of McGill University, in an address before the McGill Canadian Club yesterday afternoon, in the Hall of the Royal Victoria College. "When you pass over the summit of the hill of life," he continued, "you will look back with pleasure and satisfaction at the bits of service you have rendered. Think of Faith, Hope and Charity. I believe in the translation of the revised version of the Bible, which reads Faith, Hope and Service, and the greatest of these is Service."

Entering a packed hall, Sir Robert, preceded by R. K. Jones, president of the Club, took his place on the platform accompanied by Miss Hurlbatt, Sir Arthur Currie, Dean Armstrong, of the Faculty of Medicine, Dr. Finley, Dean Laing, and Dr. Leacock.

In a short speech, drawing attention to the important place occupied by Sir Robert Borden in Canadian and Imperial politics, the president introduced the speaker.

At the outset of his address to McGill students, the guest of honour referred to the part played by Canadians during the war. "The facts will become more and more conspicuous as the years go by," he said, "and Canadians will realize the debt which they owe to their army which went through the intolerable in France and other parts of Europe. The Canadian Corps was the most formidable, especially during the last 100 days of active warfare. Their burden was borne chiefly by the rank and file, but their guidance was directed by your Principal. Sir Arthur Currie was in close relations with myself, so that I can speak with accuracy. I am proud to say it, and I am sure that you will agree with me when I say that he has continued his valuable service to Canada since 1918."

NEW TEA-TIME ENTERTAINMENT

Mandolin Club Plays in the Cafeteria

The Union House Committee met yesterday afternoon, the usual routine business going through. To-day the Committee is instituting a novel addition to the attractions around the Union. The Cafeteria has been doing well. Ever since the opening of college in October the capacity of the Cafeteria has been taxed to the uttermost, and it is a fact acknowledged by all the students who eat there that the meals served are the cheapest and best procurable anywhere in the city.

Tea time is the social hour, and when lectures are over the pressing problems of the day can be gone into and discussed over the tea-table. To-day the House Committee is offering something new in the way of tea-time entertainment. Commencing at 4.45, the Mandolin Club has kindly consented to put on a musical programme in the Cafeteria. It should prove a great attraction. Those who were lucky enough to be present at the Special Convocation can vouch fully for the excellence of the selections presented.

Don't fail to be there. If the professor insists that you remain at lectures till 5.00, walk gently to him and whisper in his ear, "Tea-Cafeteria—Mandolin Club." He will probably come down himself then.

Another billiard tournament will be staged after Christmas. The main reason for holding one is because the first was so successful it is thought that the next will be equally so.

Arrangements were made for a musical to be held this coming Sunday afternoon in the lounge of the Union. The time and programme will be announced later.

The next informal will be on the first of December, as has been announced. The University Dance Orchestra will play, and a real evening is promised all those who attend.

THE JUNIOR PROM.

The Union to-night will be the scene of one of the classics of the college social season. The Junior Prom., managed and patronized by students in their Junior year at the University, is at some time or other an event of surpassing importance to most undergraduates. This session no efforts have been spared to make this Junior Dance the equal in every respect of its predecessors, and present indications are that it will excel them in several departments.

At McGill the Juniors, perhaps more than any other class, have in their hands the control of campus affairs. Theirs is the credit for the Prom., for the Annual and for the choosing of faculty representatives on the Students' Council. The Junior Dance is the first endeavour of the Juniors that is to be placed before the student body for its approval. On the shoulders of the Committee there rests, then, a responsibility that is not borne by other dance committees. Just how well they have lived up to advance notices will be proved this evening, in no uncertain manner, we are sure, when the crowds begin to flow into the Union and to enjoy the extensive preparations made for their entertainment.

WORK WHILE WE MAY.

The chilly air, the sombre sky, and the occasional snowflake herald the near approach of winter. Visions of the Christmas vacation, and the happy re-union with parents, relatives and friends loom before us, and in one month's time will be realities for the majority of students. After the hearty Yuletide season, will come a short spell of lectures, the end of the first term, and then those dreaded January examinations, so often the undoing of many first year people, and at least the cause of discomfort to others in higher years. Almost two months have passed since college commenced; almost two months remain before the testing. There is yet time to retrieve ourselves.

Let us glance back at the days gone by. What have we done? Have we reason to be pleased or displeased with ourselves? The wise student has pursued his or her course, whether in first year or last, with moderation. He or she has blended work and play in harmonious combination—a reasonable amount of study, a reasonable amount of athletics, and a reasonable amount of pleasure.

A few students, fortunately only a few, have been book-worms, devoting practically their entire time to cramming thousands of facts into their small heads. Others have won positions on various athletic teams, but too often their places remain empty in the classroom, their books lie unopened on the shelf. These two types are both extremes, and while they are evidently securing something out of college, they are not the desirable kind of students. Yet worse are the pleasure-seeking persons who flit away precious hours at theatre, dance or party, caring nought for the academic or the athletic side of college life. These people, not worthy to be called students, are not fit for McGill, and unless they mend their ways, the majority attain the unenviable rank of "Christmas graduates."

From time immemorial, the exodus of first year students, especially from Applied Science, after the January examinations, has been one of the unpleasant features of the university. Steady, conscientious work will prevent a great number of failures. We are now in the period between the fall and winter activities. The exciting football days are over. Winter sports, and the whirl of social engagements have yet to come. This is the time for application. Brilliant students may become more brilliant; lesser lights may improve their positions; and the neglectful ones may yet save their young college careers from utter destruction. Let us ascertain our deficiencies. Above all, let us work, so that when Christmas comes, we may enjoy a well-earned holiday, without dread as to the future.

WANT WORKERS FOR CHARITIES DRIVE

Few in Medicine and None in Dentistry

The Federation of Charities Drive, which is going on now in the university, is being fairly well supported by the students. The staff have generously responded to the appeal, over one hundred of them having already subscribed. But notwithstanding this, the subscription list is not, up to the present date, quite satisfactory.

There are campaign workers in the faculties of Arts, Science, Law and the R.V.C. who are looking after their subscriptions. Only a few are working for the drive in Medicine and none in Dentistry. It would be greatly appreciated if men from these two faculties would volunteer to help.

E. C. Amaron is in charge of the McGill Campaign and will be in Room 14, Strathcona Hall, from 1:30 to 3:00 o'clock this afternoon and will give cards to any who will volunteer to help in this appeal.

Col. Irving P. Rexford is looking after the appeal in educational centres and is hoping that McGill will generously respond. The Federation of Charities is a most worthy cause and it is up to every university student to respond as best he or she may.

"Mr. Grabco, said the brisk young man, "I am a college graduate."
"Glad to hear it," replied that self-made millionaire, somewhat grimly.
"I came to give you the refusal of my services in some executive capacity."
"Much obliged. Good morning."
"Eh, sir?"
"I am merely accepting your kind offer. Again, good morning."

R.V.C. IMPORTANT!

Students who have been selling tickets for the R.V.C. The Dancant on Saturday are requested to give the money (from the tickets sold), and the tickets still on hand to the House Porter. It is necessary that all unsold tickets be handed in, to meet demands on record with the committee.

R.V.C. '25.

There will be a class meeting to-day, at one o'clock, in Room 2. A full attendance is requested as the meeting is very important.

And lastly, there will be lots of Club Orchestra to enliven the proceedings. And lastly, there will be lots of smoke and refreshments to round out what promises to be a most interesting meeting.

The Club desires to extend an invitation to any Ontario men who desire to meet other men from the same province to come on Monday night. It is not necessary that they should be members, if they come from Ontario that is sufficient. The idea is to let the men see what a good time they can have at the Ontario Club before asking them to become members, and to give them an opportunity to meet men from the same province. Freshmen are especially urged to attend this smoker, for they will be able to come into contact with men of the upper years from the same part of the country.

CORRESPONDENCE

The Daily is not responsible for the sentiments of letters published in the correspondence columns. Signed communications from graduates, undergraduates and members of the faculties will be placed in print if they are not of too great length.

Correspondents are requested to observe the unwritten law of the newspaper office—that they write upon ONE SIDE of the paper ONLY.

To the Editor,
McGill Daily:

Sir,—The "Varsity," University of Toronto's undergrad. paper, gives an accurate and fairly unprejudiced account of the struggle at the Molson Stadium last Saturday. The account gives Queen's all credit due, and states Varsity's defeat was due only to "Too Much Queens."

The writer makes two or three statements, however, which any observer of the game might challenge. He states: "Only one thing detracted from McKelvey's wonderful work for Kingston, and that was his stalling. It is unfortunate that this should have occurred, as Queen's would have won handsily without it." Farther down he says: "McKelvey again pulled his trick stall play, and Varsity had no more chance." This criticism will appear entirely too severe to anyone who watched the sorred-out Queen's captain break through time after time for fifteen and twenty yard gains. If McKelvey did delay the game at all it can hardly be called "stalling" on his part, with every member on each team fighting for a win. Even when Queen's was leading by several points everyone fought to make the score large enough to take out of Varsity's reach. No stalling was apparent on anyone's part to an impartial observer. The writer, towards the close of his article, states that Snyder was tripped by McKelvey on an outside kick! Here is a new term to worry all compilers of future rule books. Perhaps the Varsity sport writer will offer his services for the task. Surely he means to inform the readers of his article that Snyder was a victim of illegal interference (practised successfully to a great degree by Queen's) by McKelvey, when going down under an outside kick.

The writer also criticizes the McGill student body for almost unanimously rooting for Queen's. The fact that partiality may have been shown the Queen's team in this way only results from the game struggle Queen's put up when the breaks were against her, and from the realization that Queen's, after eighteen long years of struggling, had a chance to win a well-deserved championship.

WILL CONTRIBUTE TO FEDERATED CHARITIES

A short meeting of R.V.C. '24 was held on Wednesday, November 22. The president reminded the class of the Federated Charities Campaign of this week, and asked that those who wished to subscribe hand in their names to her and receive a pledge card. A letter from the president of the S.C.A. was read, asking the class to consider the question of whether they wished to send a delegate to the Conference in Toronto, December 28 to January 2, or not. The matter was left over for consideration until the next meeting.

At a well-attended class meeting of R.V.C. '23 held on Wednesday, November 22, several interesting subjects were discussed. The first question to be brought before the meeting was whether the R.V.C. Seniors should, as a class, take part in the campaign for the Federated Charities which is being held this week. It was decided that the Seniors should not have a class campaign, but contribute individually.

PREPARATIONS FOR COMING SKI EVENTS

Ski and Snowshoe Club Met Yesterday

WINTER CARNIVAL

Dartmouth Meet Second Week in February

A meeting of the McGill Ski and Snowshoe Club was held yesterday at 5 p.m. in the Music Room of the Union. The main topic of discussion was the proposed Winter Carnival after Christmas with its relation to the activities of the club as well as a consideration of the coming meetings.

The minutes of the last meeting on March 9th having been read, the president and secretary then conducted an election to fill the positions of second vice-president and Arts representative. After the election, a complete list of the officers of the club was read as follows:

Hon. President—Col. H. Molson.
President—A. O. Leslie.
Vice-President—R. Whittall.
Sec. Vice-President—C. N. Ramsay.
Manager—D. Anderson.
Treasurer—E. Shenard.
Arts Representative—A. R. Stone.
Med.—P. Q. Wade.
Law—W. F. MacKlaier.
Sci.—H. Smith.

The advisability of using the jump in the Stadium this year was then discussed. As the Stadium is about to be closed, a decision had to be reached before long. After much hesitation on the part of some of the members it was finally decided to use the jump as soon as the first heavy snowfall made its appearance.

The president then asked the opinion concerning the possibility of again levying a fee of fifty cents upon each of the members in order to thus give a due amount of support to the Athletic Association of which the club was now a member. This fee had been discontinued the previous two years upon the club's entrance into the Athletic Association. All those present expressed their opinion affirmatively, and it was then decided to collect the said sum.

The possibility of using the Montreal Ski Club's jump for the coming sport was then considered, with a decision to see the president of the M. S. C. in this matter. The question of the week-end trip was deferred until a future meeting, when it was hoped there would be a larger attendance of the members.

It was also announced that, as in former years, the Dartmouth meet will be held the second week-end in February and the meet here at McGill will take place the first week-end in March. If there is a sufficiently heavy snowfall before Christmas a cross-country run will be held to pick material for the coming meets. The club is also lucky in being able to have the greater part of its advertising attended to by the Winter Carnival Committee. From all indications a very successful season is hoped for and no pains are being spared to prepare for the coming meets. All dependence is now placed upon the weather to provide a good fall of snow early in the season.

GIRLS' TEAMS COMPETE FOR WEIR TROPHY

McGill Represented by Physical Eds.

CLOSE HEATS

Finals to be Held in M.A.A.A. Tank Next Monday

The preliminary heats of the Weir Trophy swimming contests were held in the M.A.A.A. tank last night. The four teams competing were the McGill School of Physical Education, the Young Women's Christian Association, the Westmount High School, and the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association.

The heats included 200 yards free, 40 yards side, breast and back stroke, and style swimming. The M.A.A.A. swimmers made the best showing, securing five first places, but the Physical Ed. girls (resplendent in Red and White bath robes, kindly lent by McGill swimmers), were favourites for second place, winning two firsts, three seconds and three thirds. If they keep up the good form already shown, they should stand an excellent chance of winning the trophy next Monday night.

Miss Dorothy Burrell and Miss Doris Bain were the outstanding performers for the McGill representatives, while the Misses Silcock, Gallery and Barwick all won heats for the Winged Wheel team. Style swimming took place at the end of the evening. The results were as follows:—

1st—Y.W.C.A., 28 points.
2nd—W.H.S., 25 points.
3rd—M.S.P.E. and M.A.A.A., 24 1-2 points.

Miss Perry, of M.S.P.E., '24, made the necessary points to secure a third place for her team in these events.

An approximate calculation of the points gained by the different teams on last night's showing gives the following standing:—

1st—M.A.A.A.
2nd—M.S.P.E.
3rd—W.H.S.
4th—Y.W.C.A.

The Physical Ed. line-up was as follows:—

D. Burrell (Capt.); P. Powell, D. Bain, F. Flanagan, L. Ibbotson, and E. Perry.

The Weir Trophy, which was donated by Mr. W. S. Weir, was first won by the M.A.A.A. representatives, and last year by the Westmount High School. Ladies and girls belonging to schools, colleges and associations are eligible to compete for it annually.

their pro rata share of the universal fee. It had been ascertained that they can run a man for the Students' Council and the Union House Committee, whether or not they were members of the Arts Undergrad. This matter has been the bone of contention for some time.

The next business to be brought up was the election of a publicity manager. Taprell was appointed to this position. Tremaine, the president, addressed a few words to the body, telling them that the finances were in a flourishing condition, a sum of two hundred and ninety-five dollars being in the treasury. About half of the first year have already joined, and it is expected that the remainder will soon become members. The matter of index cards was then brought up, and the president asked that any students who had information as to the whereabouts, and the position, of graduates of the School of Commerce, would kindly give him this information, he would be much obliged, as one of the main objects of the body was to keep track of its past students.

Mr. Sugars then addressed the gathering. He spoke of a new course which the School was putting on next February, in conjunction with the Dominion Government. This course will be on the subject of Export Trade, and will occupy about two weeks. It will, without doubt, be a most interesting and instructive course, as there will be many well known special lecturers.

After Mr. Sugars, Dr. Villard spoke to the meeting for a few minutes. Refreshments were then served. These came last, but were, indeed, not the least attractive part of the session. Two students, Gault and Goldsmith, were elected to take part in a French debate at the Cercle Francais next Tuesday.

The McGill yell was the next, and loudest, event of the evening, following which the society decided that they had done enough for one evening, and consequently adjourned.

So shalt thou come to the Land of Dreams,
With love and peace to this world of strife;
And the light which over the border streams,
Shall lie on the path of thy daily life.

—W. C. Bryant.

BASKETBALL SQUAD SNAPPY PRACTICE

Coach Van Wagner Working Out Men

The Senior basketball team held a short practice last night in Molson Hall. The sixteen men selected for the squad were all out, and some good basketball was played when various teams met. Although no definite selection of the team has as yet been made, the first team selected was composed of last year's men, with the exception of Hilton. This new player went into the place left open by Livshin, and displayed a fair brand of basketball. The small floor space made open passing almost impossible, and as no signals have as yet been planned, the teams did not work as well as could be hoped. Crain, the other first string defence man, was back in form. The second team played as well as the veterans for the first few minutes of the play, Scharf, of last year's intermediates, being conspicuous in the offensive work. Frequent substitutions were made in both teams, and all the men were on the floor for a time.

Coach Van Wagner started the men on passing and working the ball up the floor. In all probability the passing of the team will be similar to the combination work displayed last year, when they scored the majority of their victories on passing the ball.

Efforts are being made to secure the use of the High School for practice, as the intercollegiate matches will be played there. This floor gives room for the development of a more open game.

The other squad will turn out to-night and practice. Although the men from this team will make up the Intermediate and Junior teams, Coach Van Wagner will for the present handle them and keep an eye out for material for the Senior squad.

an intermediary between the water wheel and the factory's machinery. The ease with which electricity can be transmitted, only losing about 6 per cent in 90 miles, makes the location of the waterfall or source of power a matter of secondary importance. To run an engine by means of coal in a locality where there is none of this fuel involves an enormous expense in haulage. All this expense is saved when electric power is utilized.

In Canada the so-called "white coal" is favourably located. Practically all commercial centres except a few mid-prairie towns have power close at hand for all anticipated requirements. Centres not favoured with water power have large coal deposits for the most part. Canada is fortunate in that her water powers and deposits of coal are "complementary."

Speaking on the actual development of water power Alexander remarked that there were many rules, statutes and regulations to be observed before any power could be utilized. The question of who shall legislate and how far they shall legislate is one depending largely upon the particular conditions in each province. It is fortunate that the title to water power rights belongs almost entirely to the Dominion or Provincial Governments. The claims of each Provincial Government are varied, the Federal Government claims, however, only the right to control the water powers on navigable streams to the extent that any development must not interfere with navigation.

With regard to the Chippawa power canal, the speaker said it was a canal to convey water from the upper Niagara river to a point near Queenstown, where the largest power plant in the world is nearing completion. It permits using full available head between Lakes Erie and Ontario, 305 feet, more than twice that of Niagara Falls. The canal is 12.34 miles long with a capacity of 15-18,000 cu. ft. per sec. It operates a set of generators and turbines, the largest in the world, each of 55,000 h.p. The final capacity is 650,000 h.p. It is felt that the need of electric power is so great that this plant, immense as is its output, will pay well.

Speaking on the St. Lawrence Waterways Scheme, Alexander said that many plans had been presented to deepen the St. Lawrence and thereby develop much electric horsepower. The horsepower developed is estimated at 625,000 and the cost to be $1,500,000. Montreal and New York objected chiefly on the ground that the scheme was impractical.

The speaker then dwelt on the importance of hydro-development to Canada. Water power, unlike coal, is inexhaustible. Hence, although water power will probably have replaced coal entirely before the latter peters out, the fact remains that when coal or oil is used it is gone forever, whereas water can be utilized again and again. In Canada a very large percentage of the coal used is consumed by locomotives and Alexander suggested the electrification of the railways as one of the great advantages of hydro-development. On a line like that between Port Arthur and Montreal, commonly called the "Bridge", coal is scarce and fuel has often to be hauled for hundred of miles before it is used. In this district, however, water power abounds. The use of electricity as a medium of heat in the home was also discussed.

Alexander concluded his interesting lecture by stating that it was clear from what had been said that water power was of big import to Canada. "We should have a big advantage in the race for world markets," he declared, "where power is one of the chief products. If development as in the past fifteen years is maintained we will not only not need to import it but will not need to mine any at home."

A general discussion on the topic was then held. Professor Leacock declared that the lecture had been far from "dry" and that as far as he could see Canada's future was in her "wetness." At this rating the Province of Quebec must have a bright and hopeful future.

President Ballantyne then announced that the next meeting would be held three weeks hence. Craik and Calder will read papers on the "Government of India and Its Relation to the Empire." Light refreshments were then served, and the gathering adjourned.

"STUNT NIGHT" TO BE ENTERTAINING EVENT

A novel and amusing entertainment known as a "stunt night" is to be given by the S.C.A. of R.V.C. at 8:15 Wednesday evening, November 29, in order to raise money to help with the expenses of sending delegates to the National Conference at Toronto in December. As it has been arranged to have the performance in Strathcona Hall and to charge the modest sum of 25c for admission, it is hoped that a large and appreciative audience will patronize it.

"Some of my friends on the platform are like myself, of the 19th century type; you young people are of the 20th. You are full of life and force; keep for the unknown future which lies before the world. I envy you. Young men at McGill are exceptionally fortunate, you are here to get an education. What are you to do with it? I would commend to you the spirit of service, and to remind you of Faith, Hope and Charity. The Greek word for charity when translated, means service."

"At college you have met with difficulty, probably financially or of a hundred other varieties. Others have experienced the same. Think not of these hindrances as unfortunate burdens, but rather as opportunities, and you will ultimately outlive your present difficulties."

"The university man has an obligation not only to his family, not only to his community, but to his country. It is the obligation of service. We who are perhaps older than you, also realize the changes which have come to hand of late. They are far reaching and go to the heart of economic and political life. These changes do not lessen the duties which confront the citizen of the world. You have a duty to pass on unsullied, the unchangeable truths, the intellectual and moral heritage handed down to you. As you men and women approach then your maturity, you are coming to the most critical period in the world's history."

"Our right as Canadians to govern ourselves dates back over many years. Step by step this freedom has been increased. When the Act of Confederation was passed in 1867, a notable concession was given us, but at the present day still greater liberties are being permitted. The institution of the Imperial Conferences has been a mark of very recent years. Gradually Great Britain is becoming a union of self-governing dominions. In time each will have an equal voice in the government of the Empire. This principle will surely come."

"The greatest privilege of Canadians is to be a self-governing nation of this great empire or commonwealth."

Referring to a conversation with the late General Botha, while attending an Imperial Conference, Sir Robert quoted this South African chieftain as saying that on all questions raised at Imperial Conferences, Canada and the South African Union were of the same mind. General Botha was unhesitating in his support of the British Empire, after he found that it offered liberty equal to that of an independent republic, and at the same time extended advantages which are not to be had by small states.

"What will be our policy in relation to the Empire and other parts of the world? I offer that our voice should be above the cry of petty politics and intrigues, and be that advocating the issues of right and justice, the voice of service."

"What will be our policy in relation to the Empire and other parts of the world? I offer that our voice should be above the cry of petty politics and intrigues, and be that advocating the issues of right and justice, the voice of service."

PHYSICAL EDs. PLAY LACROSSE

Muddy Battle Between Hostilities and Non-Residents

The Stadium was the scene of a battle royal on Wednesday afternoon between the resident and non-resident students of the School of Physical Education. In common with most outdoor engagements that take place late in November (periods of the Great War not excepted) mud played a prominent part in the proceedings. In spite of this disadvantage, however, the Hostilities "slid" to a decisive victory, the final score leaving them with 5 goals to their opponents' 1.

B. Dennis, L. Stone and K. Duff-Stuart scored for the victors. F. Flanagan, who played centre for the non-residents in the second period, caught a long pass from E. Snyder and after a dash down the middle of the field shot the only goal for the losing team. The line-up follows:

natural forces. This was manifest in the war. Since 1909 enormous strides have been taken to advance the cause of science. Aeroplanes, gases, new kinds of bombs and other devices for destroying life. These additions to our world have called forth much thought in my later days. There must be a realization of service to the nation and to the world at large, on the part of everyone.

"The League of Nations cannot evade war. Its machinery is the same as any other machinery. If it has not the necessary steam or power it cannot function. If the League has not the support of public opinion it is without steam. Provided it is given the support, I believe that it is the only true path to preserve peace. Since 1918 it has preserved peace on different occasions. It has done more to prevent war than the efforts of all the chancellors of the world. It is becoming a representative international force, and now has 52 representative states."

In the opinion of Sir Robert, the United States should be a member of the League, to co-operate and give moral and material support."

In a closing appeal to McGill men to promote the spirit of service, the speaker urged all students to study the aims of the League, and further suggested that if students of McGill cared to form a society to study the work of the League that literature would be easily obtained.

R. L. Hamilton, president of the Students' Council, moved a vote of thanks to Sir Robert for the interesting, instructive and inspiring address. This motion was heartily seconded by Charlie Ballantyne, of Arts '23.

WESTERNERS HELD DINNER AT THE UNION

About Seventy Members Present

EXECUTIVE ELECTED

To Hold Dance in Conjunction with Maritimers

Seventy Westerners sat down to a sumptuous dinner in the dining room of the McGill Union in their first get-together event of the season last evening. Sir Arthur Currie, the Honorary President, was unable to attend owing to the fact that he was to dine with Sir Robert Borden.

After the excellent meal, and smokes and cider had been passed around, Clelland, the president, rose to say a few words. He stated that the Western Club had been organized in 1906, and had been going strong ever since; that there was no reason why it should not go on and be a source of benefit and pleasure to all. He also emphasized the fact that such a club had three primary objects, first, to promote social fellowship; secondly, to secure prominent men to speak before the members, and lastly to develop the ability for impromptu speaking. He then introduced an honoured guest in the person of R. H. Hamilton, president of the Students' Council. In the first place, "Hammy" stated that he was both pleased and privileged to be present at such a gathering. He said the idea was a wonderful thing, especially in the developing of college spirit. He spoke of the McGill spirit; no college spirit in Canada was comparable to it, and he asserted that the best way to achieve that stick-together spirit was by such meetings. College spirit, such as shown at the special Convocation for Admiral Sims made him feel proud of McGill undergraduates, and he brought out the fact that the main thing was comradeship. Then he told the Westerners what a fine lot of men they were, the West being well represented in athletics and college activities. He said he was glad the Westerners present had chosen to come to McGill and not Toronto. He thanked the club for the privilege of allowing him to say these few words to them.

Dan MacGillivray, of the Maritime Club, was then introduced. He said he was honored to be present, and although born in B.C., his parents fortunately being far-sighted, moved to the Atlantic Coast, and therefore he was somewhat of an extremist. He wished to extend greetings from the Maritime students to those of the West.

In order that all might become better acquainted each man arose in turn and gave his surname, nick-name, faculty and the district from which he came. At this point a vote of thanks was tendered to Patterson, Vango, and "Jazz" Harrison, who had voluntarily supplied the music for the evening, and also to Fotos for the excellent violin solos.

The business part of the evening was then proceeded with, and the following executive was elected:—

Hon. President—Sir Arthur Currie.
President—Clelland.
Vice-President—MacNaughton.

SCHOLARSHIPS FOR GRADUATE SCIENCE MEN

Three Exhibitions Allotted to Canada

VALUE £250

Registrar Is Urged to Recommend Candidates

Dr. J. A. Nicholson, M.A., Registrar of the University, is in receipt of a letter from the Secretary of His Majesty's Commissioners for the Exhibition of '851, urging the recommendation of a student or students from the Faculty of Applied Science for the Exhibitions of the present year.

Although only three of these Exhibitions are allotted to Canada, each University is allowed to propose two men for Scholarships. These are to be proposed in order of merit, and full data given regarding their ability and accomplishments. Unlike the selections of a Rhodes Scholar, the choosing of the winners of these Exhibitions is done by one central Board of Commissioners for the whole of the British Empire.

The Scholarships are post-graduate, and are intended to enable selected students of overseas universities who have already completed a full university course, and given evidence of capacity for scientific investigation to devote themselves for two years to research work under conditions most likely to equip them for practical service in the scientific life of the Empire. The value of the scholarships is £250 per annum, tenable ordinarily for two years, and in exceptional cases for three years.

Every candidate must be a British subject, under the age of twenty-six years, and must have been a student of science in a university for a period of not less than three years.

The record of a candidate's work must indicate high promise of proficiency for advancing science, or its applications by original research.

A scholar winning one of the Exhibitions will be required to devote his whole time to the objects of the Scholarship and will not be permitted to hold any position likely to conflict with this requirement. He may receive an extra grant of £25 on presenting within three months of the expiration of his Scholarship a complete and satisfactory account of his work.

McGill students have been successful in securing one of the three Canadian Exhibitions each year for the last three years, John Russell winning the Scholarship in 1919; Etienne S. Bieler in 1920, and Leslie G. Saunders in 1921.

Secretary—Lloyd.

Treasurer—S. G. Elliot.

Med. Representative—Dyer.

Science Representative—Warren.

Arts Representative—Jardine.

The question of a dance in conjunction with the Maritime Club then came up, and it was decided to hold a dance on Dec. 8th, in the Union if possible. The membership fee was fixed at two dollars. The gathering then went on record as being in favor of holding their business meeting in the first or second week of each month, in the form of an informal dinner.

GODDESS OF JAZZ WILL WOO DANCERS

Music and Youth Will Hold Sway at R.V.C. The Fat Eemuh, the aged seeress, unto those that sit at the feet of the sages within the sacred portals of Mah Ghil:

"And behold as I sat before the crystal in my chamber—which is even the third floor back in the house of one Murphi, a rich widow, who liveth in the street called Main, No. 47—I saw a great vision, and a Voice spake unto me, saying:

"Fat Eemuh, daughter of Havva Sig R Ett and Toomuch Candhi, take pen and paper and write unto the students at Mah Ghil of all that thou shalt see; for the stars have foretold great joy and prosperity to all who give ear unto thy words."

And as I gazed, a film o'erspread the transparent surface of the sphere and I sank as if into a trance and sweet dreams of music afar off stole upon my senses and subtle perfumes assailed my nostrils. Then the film cleared and there appeared before me such a scene as emperors and kings might dream of.

And behold I saw a vast hall and the floor thereof shone as polished brass. From the corner thereof came those enchanted strains which smote upon mine ears and looking I beheld men dressed after the barbarous fashion of the West, brandishing about them wierd instruments of cunning make, out of which came those ravishing sounds. And I marvelled within me saying, "Now who be these?"

And the Voice answered:

"Know, oh seeress, that they be High Priests of Ja-sj, greatest of all the gods of the barbarians, who do continually stand before him to serve him."

Then I perceived that this was some new sort of Temple, yet saw I not any worshippers. And the Voice, knowing my thought, spake again, saying: "Look again, my daughter."

And I looked and saw round about the sides of the temple, as it were, many small altars set and on them offerings of flowers and all manner of food. And lo, before them sat a great crowd, male and female, two before each; and they partook freely of the offerings which were replenished from time to time by white-robed priestesses. Of a surety this seemed to me a most strange thing.

And ever and anon as they ate, the High Priests performed upon their instruments; and lo, every man seized the fair one that ate with him, and clasping her in his arms, advanced into the centre of the temple and there went through many curious movements and at such a rapid pace that the whole scene swam before me and I would fain have shut mine eyes. Yet could I not tear them away, so great was the spell that held me.

Then over against the door I saw a crowd of damsels gathered, clad in purple and silks of many colors, and beautiful as the black-eyed hours of Paradise. And lo those youths who sat not before the altars within, but who exceeded far in number those other blessed ones, cast their eyes upon the charms of the damsels in a manner which is called in this country

"looking 'em over." Yet methought the fair ones not greatly averse to this scrutiny; seeming even to encourage it with flashing glances and half-veiled smiles. But of that I could not be certain. Then one of a number of lesser priestesses wearing red ribbons as a sign of their order, approached and murmured strange words over bashful youth and maid, whereat each salaamed deeply and thereupon taking hands joined the mad devotees in their dance.

Then said I: "Tell me how come these princes hither, for surely they must be the great and powerful of the land, that such bliss be granted them this side of Paradise."

"Not so," said the Voice. "This temple which thou seest is called Ahry Y Czi, which is also the scraggle of Mah Ghil, and many of the damsels are its inmates. Those whom thou takest to be great princes are in truth, naught but poor, yet wise, students who may gain admission to the temple and take part in the blissful ceremony on payment of so small a sum that it is unworthy of mention. Yet, since thou wouldst know all, I will reveal it thee—

For 100 zeechins may be bought a seat before the small altars for any student and whatsoever maiden he may for the moment esteem above all others in wit and beauty. And for he who hath not such a large sum in his pocket—and such, O Fat Eemuh, are as the sands of the desert in number—50 zeechins sufficeth to purchase a place in the gates of the temple and for his enjoyment are provided (though how, even I may not tell thee since it is unknown even to the stars in their courses) the beauteous creatures thou didst observe"

Then said I:

"And when, O mighty One, will these things come to pass?"

And the Voice made answer—"On the next day after this, even Saturday, as it is here called, at the fourth hour after noon."

But when I would know more, the voice was silent. So straightway seized I ink and paper and did even as I was bid, setting down all these things in order.

Wherefore, O ye students, by the cornerstone of the Calba, by the beard of the Prophet, and the Turban of the Mighty One, tarry not. But purchase now and with haste for thy 100 or 50 zeechins according as thy wealth permitteth, a billet of admission and go thou tomorrow and partake of the joys herein set down; lest another be before thee and thou find thyself too late and like the foolish virgins turned away from the door to mourn thy loss in the deserted ways of the city?

WATER POLOISTS WORKOUT IN Y.M.C.A.

The water poloists added one more hard hour's training to their list of successful workouts last evening. Enough men were present to form two teams which practised swimming, passing the ball and playing in combination.

Coach Vernot called the men together at 5.15 p.m. sharp, and did not let them quit work until well on towards seven o'clock. Thus ample opportunity was given all the men of getting into the water.

The coach said the teams were coming along satisfactorily, especially the Seniors. In every game they have played so far, they have been victorious, and the workouts continue to be well attended. The outlook for the club will indeed be bright.
